

ALEX & ALEXIS

had a rough start in life. When they were just 2 ½ years old, they were found in a Denton County home with only the body of their deceased mother. The house was flooded, and they had been there for at least three days with no food, water, or caretaker. Their father was in prison in another state. Fast forward to a year later, when thanks to their CASA Advocate Amanda, both children have found a loving home with their father. Amanda fought for him to have the right to parent his children after he had paid his debt to society and was released from prison. She ensured that he completed all the services directed by the court and proved that he could be the stable and responsible parent that these two children needed.
